Using the Terminal Window as part of WinSCP

Once you are logged onto WinSCP, you can execute command from either the Command Line or from the Terminal Window.

When you have to execute a significant number of commands, the terminal window may be easier to use. The following is an example of what the terminal window looks like when executing a pybot command: